

Take part in Newhaven Open Call 2019.....please read fully!

Newhaven Open Call is an artist led initiative inviting artists and non-artists to the area to make a NEW piece of art about Newhaven.

THE WORK HAS TO BE a new and personal response to the port town of Newhaven; it's vicinity and rich history.

The Open Call invites both individual and collaborative work. This includes painting, drawing, sculpture, video, film and installation and encourages an experimental approach. It may not be 'finished' artworks and perhaps artists may be working outside of their 'usual' processes. The event is about engaging with the place and responding to what you find, therefore no pre-existing work can be accepted.

HOW TO TAKE PART:

Engage with Newhaven and make some art. The event is FREE to enter. Bring ONE piece of work -all participants will be accepted

If you have Internet access, print off and fill in an entry form available at newhavenprojects.co.uk

Drop off work at The Ship Hotel, with your entry form or fill one in on delivery

Come to the preview opening of the exhibition in rooms at The Ship Hotel and connect with others

POINTS TO NOTE:

We welcome work in any format but are limited by the fact that all work has to be delivered up a flight of stairs, presenting restrictions in terms of size. Artists have to provide their own audio / video equipment if required. We will need to be notified in advance of any work that might present us with issues in their display - queries should be sent to newhavenopencall@gmail.com

The exhibition is invigilated whilst open to the public; artwork will not be insured whilst in our hands so please take out your own insurance if required. We cannot store any work that is not collected.

We are running a number of Artist led events for members of Newhaven communities – newhavenprojects.co.uk for further details. Newhaven Open call is organised by artists Nick Bush, Helen Turner and Nick Marsh.
